- Strengthen programme implementation and monitoring systems

Every CSR contribution can be directed towards a clearly defined programme, geographical area, learning centre, school or group of beneficiaries based on the company's social-impact priorities.

Programme-Based CSR Collaboration

Companies may partner with Pehal Sanstha by supporting:

- A specific education or child-development programme
- A learning centre for a defined period

CSR partnerships may be structured as short-term projects, annual programmes or long-term collaborations, depending on the intended scale, objectives and expected outcomes.

Employee Engagement Alongside CSR Support

Companies may combine CSR funding with employee-volunteering opportunities to create deeper and more personal engagement.

Employees can participate through mentoring, workshops, career guidance, digital-literacy sessions, creative activities, programme visits and community-engagement events.

This integrated approach allows companies to contribute both financial resources and professional expertise, creating a stronger connection between employees and the communities supported through the partnership.

Transparency, Monitoring and Impact Reporting

Pehal Sanstha believes that effective CSR partnerships must be supported by accountability, transparency and measurable outcomes.

Depending on the nature and scope of the programme, corporate partners may receive:

- Detailed project proposals and implementation plans
- Defined programme objectives and beneficiary groups
- Activity schedules and utilisation plans
- Periodic programme updates
- Photographs and activity documentation
- Beneficiary and outreach data
- Progress and impact reports
- Utilisation and supporting documentation, as applicable
- Opportunities for programme visits and employee participation

The scope of reporting, documentation and monitoring can be mutually agreed upon while designing the partnership.
